

Restoration of a stone reef

The Danish Nature Agency is planning a project regarding restoration of a stone reef in the coastal area North of Zealand and will apply for funding from EU-LIFE. We are therefore looking for project leaders and others involved in reef establishment and restoration projects around Europe who would be interested in participating in an expert group with the focus of sharing and building knowledge. The members could be from both planned, ongoing and recently finished projects. We would be happy to hear from any interested candidates.
